10/30/84

— THIS WAS MY FIRST TRIP TO POD.

— I WAS MORE THAN PLEASED BY THE ENTHUSIASM, PROFESSIONALISM, AND SINCERITY OF EVERY PERSON I HEARD SPEAK.

— THE WILLINGNESS OF POD MEMBERS TO SHARE THEIR IDEAS SO THAT OTHERS CAN BECOME MORE EFFECTIVE BOARDS ON MACHINABILITY. I TRULY WASN'T AWAY EDUCATED.

— THE PROGRAM WAS GREAT.

— I'M SURE (THIS IS NOT EXAGGERATED) APT LEAVES AS MUCH AS I DID.

— THANK YOU FOR A GREAT CONFERENCE —

(very satisfactory) Comments: Generally a very good conference. Organization was inadequate in a few areas (over).

but some of unplanned wandering probably cannot be avoided. 20-min sessions dist not seem to work out very well.

As stated above, more free time is needed. Removal of the trivial presentations might provide the time.

Continued lateness of some participants to the session was very distracting

(I realize that this problem is not under direct control of committee.)

Help was generally present when needed by many persons.

The location and accommodations were superior.

I enjoyed the conference very much and compliment the committee and particularly Ed Neal for a job well done.

(very satisfactory) Comments: Don't ever go back to Jekyll Island.

Furthermore, I take exception to Art C's comments that the food problems were due to non-Southerners impatience and lack of social graces. I have been to conferences in Atlanta and seen many fine examples of gracious and even elegant dining. - Come to think of it, they even knew enough to serve vegetables with the meat.

(very satisfactory) Comments:

A reality of seasons: I have been to some very good seasons. I have been to some that are among the worst I have attended at any conference. Overheard comments suggest that others have had comparable experiences and that this has characterized past POD conferences. (This is the first one I have attended.)

I would suggest two actions might be appropriate. First, presenters need to pay attention to the published description of the session content. Participants use these descriptions to decide what to attend and feel checked when the announced content doesn't materialize. Second, greater discussion should be exercised in deciding what sessions to present. This may require more information about the session content to use in the review & decision-making process.

I'm still trying to decide if I gained enough from the good sessions to merit attending a second POD conference, given the forewarned and time costs associated with attending. The people are great but nice people can't compensate completely for weak substance.

Quality of Sessions:

(unsatisfactory)

1	2	3	4	5

(very satisfactory) Comments: I was rather disappointed with the quality of the sessions compared, say, with last year at Keystone. Perhaps this has something to do with the balance between practical, hands-on sessions (POD's specialty), and reflective or theoretical sessions - too many of the former, too few of the latter. I left feeling still hungry, and not just because of the quality of the food. (very satisfactory) Comments: There were too many focuses, so in the end the conference lacked coherence. Two would be about right - say minorities + women and advances in technology - ONE even better.

(very satisfactory) Comments: Lion Gardiner's "User's Guide to the Jeckyll Island Environment" was TERRIFIC! Let's have something like it next year. Some session titles misleading - how about some indication of level of expertise needed (e.g. in computer-focused sessions).

Accommodations:

(unsatisfactory)

1	2	3	4	5

Entertainment:

1	2	3	4	5
---	---	---	---	---

(very satisfactory) Comments: Sea Island singers a nice idea, Darve Jammers and pianist ok, though not great. Special events (are those entertainment?) better: I'd give the tennis tourney, marsh walk, cruise, etc. a 4.

Quality of Sessions:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: Most of the sessions were very good - In some cases not enough time was allocated - but that's difficult to anticipate

Focus of Conference:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: Focus was generally ok although more of a theme with some sub-sections might have been

Conference Packet:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: good -

Accommodations:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

Fine - some paper (a few sheets for those of us who forgot to bring

(very satisfactory) Comments: some - my room was quite dingy - service was very poor - including no wake-up service when it had been requested - Also

Food:

(unsatisfactory)

1 & 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: this was so isolated that if you needed paper - thread & needle etc - it wasn't possible to get anything -

Service was very poor + that didn't help the food -

Entertainment:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: Could have been ok but long speeches after dinner didn't help - Also an outdoor reception when the insect problem is so great was not

Transportation:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: the best of plan - ok for the most part but the facility had so little to offer it would have been nice to get out more often -

Cost:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: ok -

Overall Rating:

(unsatisfactory)

1 2 3 4 5

(very satisfactory) Comments: The sessions were very good + the contracts excellent - no problem w/ content just the site + the arrangements -

Some were very good and some seemed to be doing a presentation only for the edification of their vita. How can we cull out those that are truly committed to F.D. from those that aren't?

(very satisfactory) Comments:

I liked the idea of the panels, although I did not attend any due to conflicts in sessions. Perhaps next year we could use these as the kick-off event instead of a keynote speaker — 4 concurrent panels in the first time slot? (or 2nd time slot after the keynote speaker?)

Our condo was unkempt and in disrepair. The maids furnished clean towels + linens, but did not vacuum or wash the kitchen or bathroom either before we arrived or while we were there. We came in one day to find them having a beer party and watching "Bonanza" on TV, so I'm not sure that the lack of service was due to overwork as much as due to undermanager.

(very satisfactory) Comments:

In spite of the negative experiences with the food and lodging, the program was good and overall, the → company was WONDERFUL! This was my 5th FOD conference and it's like coming to a family reunion.

I've managed to make a circle of colleagues/friends who are all warm, open, and caring. They push me open to eyes and help me keep up the "survivor" of my (our) work. I'm not sure the
"first-timers" would have the same experience, but I've spoken to many FOD members who feel the same way I do. The people will keep me coming back.

P.S. I also greatly appreciated having the conference near water — whether it be the sea, pool, or jacuzzi — and in an area where we can have quiet alone walks through nature.
There are very soothing, healing activities
for me.
